

A Word From The Writing Center (May 2017)

WRITING TIP

GRAMMAR: If you want to make your writing sharper and more concise, reduce your use of zombie nouns (more formally known as nominalizations). These are verbs, adjectives, and other types of speech that have been converted into nouns, zapping them of their energy. You can restore their force. To start, circle all of the words your in manuscript that end in -ion. Now change them back to their active state and revise the sentence accordingly. For example: evasion ⇒ evade, regulation ⇒ regulate, amplification ⇒ amplify, deprivation ⇒ deprive. More about zombie nouns can be found in this TEDEd video.

KEEP READING

Reading isn't just good for information, it also makes you a better writer. To keep current on your reading, try BrowZine: the service lets you create a personal bookshelf of favorite journals, view current and past issues of journals, and download articles and send them to your citation manager or Dropbox. It's available to use on your phone, tablet, or computer, with access provided by Scott Memorial Library. For assistance, contact askalibrarian@jefferson.edu.

WRITING CAFÉ

Open every Friday in May from 9am-11am: Writing Café is a quiet space where writers can gather to work on individual writing projects. It is located in room 200A of Scott Library. Drop in anytime and stay as long as you like. All you need to bring is your laptop (or just a pad of paper).
