

From 10th Street at the southwest corner of 10th and Sansom streets enter the Main building through the "emergency entrance". This entrance serves both the ambulatory portion of the emergency room and as the general entrance to the old Main building of Thomas Jefferson University Hospital. The first floor of the Main building has a drive-through, with the actual entrance set back from the street. Ask the guard at the desk to direct you to the elevators, or walk to the right, past the information desk, and look for the elevators on your left just after you turn the corner. Take any of the four elevators to the 7th floor. On the 7th floor you will see signs directing you to the ultrasound education area.

Bring your registration confirmation letter in order to obtain entry to the building.
