How can we ever thank you?

Fieldwork Educators who train Level I and Level II students do so out of the goodness of their hearts. It is often their way of "repaying" the profession for the supervision they received when they were students. It is also a way to continue their own professional development, since training students often forces us to look at how we act and what we do from a new perspective.

Thomas Jefferson University wants to thank you with more than words. Providing you with annual Fieldwork Educator Training Workshops and Clinical Council Days is a beginning, but we have been looking for something that you may find even more valuable. We can finally offer you additional opportunities as our way of saying, "Thanks for taking a Jefferson student".

Fieldwork educators who train a Jefferson student may now take advantage of the following opportunities:

Graduate credit:
- Supervision of Fieldwork students may count towards graduate credit in a Advanced Masters degree Program

Continuing Education
- Discount on all continuing education programs offered by Thomas Jefferson University, College of Health Professions

Library privileges:
- For supervisors of Level I and Level II students
- Applies for a period of 1 year beginning with the date the student starts
- Applies to books and periodicals in the library
