

OFFICIAL RULES—2020 HEARST HEALTH PRIZE

HOW TO ENTER: Hearst Health Prize (the “Competition”): Beginning May 1, 2019 at 12:00 PM (EDT)/9:00 AM (PDT) through August 9, 2019 at 3:00 PM (EDT)/12:00 PM (PDT) (the “Entry Period”), go to <http://www.jefferson.edu/hearsthealthprize> on a computer, click on the “Download Application Form” tab, complete all of the requested fields in the form, including the description of your population health program and outcomes of that program, and email the document to HearstHealthPrize@Jefferson.edu. Submissions must be completed using the desktop version of the website, not on a mobile device such as a smartphone or tablet. These are the entire rules governing the Competition, and in the event of any conflict between these Official Rules and any other disclosure regarding the Competition, these Official Rules will control. This contest is being conducted by Jefferson College of Population Health (“JCPH” or “Sponsor”) in collaboration with Hearst Communications, Inc. (“Hearst”).

1. Winner Selection: All submissions will be evaluated by select members of the faculty of the Sponsor according to the defined set of criteria outlined below. No more than 15 submissions which score the highest among this set will be referred to a panel of judges (the “Judges”) comprised of noteworthy and respected leaders in health care, who will review and score such submissions individually and then again in a closed group session, where the judges may change their initial ratings. The judges’ ratings and selection of a winning entry (“Winner”) at the conclusion of this closed session are final. Both JCPH and the Judges will use the following criteria to evaluate submissions: (i) Population health impact or outcome, demonstrated by measurable improvement (improvement in health outcomes or health behaviors for the target population that is measurable with quantitative and/or qualitative data that show a change, impact or result). The data should capture or illustrate measurable improvement or change in health of the defined population as a result of the intervention; could also include changes in: policy; individual behavior, knowledge or attitudes; institutional practices or processes; and reduction or elimination of barriers to care) (30%); (ii) Use of evidence-based interventions and best practices to improve the quality of care or services provided, particularly through the use of clinical decision support or care guidance (i.e., the project, initiative, tool or intervention is based on or encourages adoption of best practices based on available evidence and is available to team members within their regular processes) (20%); (iii) Promotion of communication, collaboration and engagement (the establishment or reinforcement of connections among different stakeholder groups (multiple care providers, patients, community agencies, etc.) that enables effective exchange of clinical information, patient involvement in decision making, and/or smooth transitions from one care venue to another care venue or to the community) (20%); (iv) Scalability and sustainability (indicators or measures that document the ability of the model/program/tool to be adapted or “scaled up” for use by a larger group or population or by similar populations in other geographic settings or communities, and demonstrate its financial viability independent of grant funding or external financial support) (15%); (v) Innovation (incorporating the use of a novel approach, technology, tool, intervention or collaboration) (15%). The population referenced in (i) above must be a population based in the 50 United States or the District of Columbia; any submissions that do not primarily focus on a United States-based population will not be considered in the Competition. In addition, the population health program that is the subject of the submission must be currently active and must have been active for at least one year. In the event of a tie, the Judges will consider the information contained in the Applicant Statement section of the application to arrive at a decision. The Competition is not a grant program; only submissions that describe an implemented project with measurable outcomes and otherwise comply with the criteria set forth herein will be considered. In the event the Sponsor does not receive a sufficient number of eligible submissions, or if Sponsor and Hearst's partnership is for any reason terminated, the Sponsor has the right to cancel the Competition without liability to either Sponsor or Hearst. By participating in the Competition, applicant certifies that his/her/its submission is original, has not previously been recognized as a winner, or finalist or honorable mention in any other contest conducted by Sponsor or Hearst, or has not won any recognition that includes a financial award for the program or activities described in the entrant's submission, and does not contain any material that would violate or infringe upon the rights of any third party, including copyrights, trademarks or rights or privacy or publicity. Sponsor reserves the right in its sole and unfettered discretion to disqualify any submission that does not comply with these official rules or that is not consistent with the spirit or theme of the competition. The decision of the Sponsor and judges is final and binding on all matters relating to the Competition.

2. Prize: 1 Winner will receive $100,000.00 in cash (the "Prize"). Hearst may, at its discretion, award additional cash prizes to the Finalists (as defined below).

3. FINALIST AND WINNER NOTIFICATION: The Judges, in their discretion, may identify up to three finalists (each, a "Finalist") from submissions that receive the highest scores based on the evaluation criteria. The Finalists will be notified by January 31, 2020, via e-mail, and/or at Sponsor's discretion, via phone or postal mail. Each Finalist or its representative will be invited to deliver a poster presentation at the March 2020 Population Health Colloquium in Philadelphia, PA. One individual from each Finalist team will be provided with roundtrip travel, hotel accommodations at the conference hotel, and free conference registration. Travel and hotel accommodations will be at the discretion of Hearst. The poster describing each Finalist's submission will be presented by Finalist or its representative at a special poster session on March 30, 2020. At Sponsor's discretion, the Winner will also make a presentation during the plenary session on March 31, 2020. In the event that a Finalist fails to respond to Sponsor's notification or does not agree to be a Finalist or does not provide signed affidavits or releases set forth below under "Conditions of Participation" within seven (7) business days of notification, such Finalist(s) will be deemed to forfeit their position as a Finalist and forfeit the Prize and Sponsor will select an alternate Finalist(s) from the remaining eligible submissions. If any alternate(s) similarly fails to respond or declines being a Finalist, Sponsor will use a reasonable number of attempts, in its discretion, to designate another alternate(s) but if it is unable to do so, the Prize may be awarded to one of the remaining Finalists. The highest scoring submission among the Finalists, according to the Judges' scoring criteria described above, will be the Winner. The Winner will be known by the Sponsor and by Hearst upon the conclusion of the Judges' scoring of submissions; however, the Winner will not be disclosed or announced until March 31, 2020. The Winner will be announced at the Population Health Colloquium on March 31, 2020 during the morning plenary session. In the event the Winner fails to respond to Sponsor's notification or does not accept the Prize within seven (7) business days of notification, the Prize will be deemed forfeited and an alternate Winner will be selected. In the event that any one or more potential Winner(s) fails to respond as stated above, declines the Prize or fails to provide signed affidavits or releases set forth below under “Conditions of Participation”, such Winner(s) will be deemed to forfeit the Prize and Sponsor will select an alternate Winner(s) from the remaining eligible applicants. If any alternate(s) similarly fails to respond or declines the Prize, Sponsor will use a reasonable number of attempts, in its discretion, to award the Prize to another alternate(s) but if it is unable to do so, the Prize will be finally forfeited and Sponsor shall have no further liability in connection with this Competition.

List of Finalists and Winner: The name(s) of the Finalists and the Winner will be posted on the Hearst Health Prize website <http://www.jefferson.edu/hearsthealthprize> on March 31, 2020 and be listed on the website until at least December 31, 2020. Applicants (each an “Entrant”) must have valid email address and it is applicant’s responsibility to update Sponsor of any change in email address. If there is a dispute as to the identity of an Entrant, the Prize will be awarded to the authorized account holder of the email address. The “authorized account holder” is defined as the natural person to whom the email address is assigned by an internet service provider, online service provider, carrier, or other organization (e.g., business, educational institution, etc.) that is responsible for assigning the email addresses for the domain associated with the submitted email address.
