

GENDER & HEALTH STUDIES

CREDITS 12

INTRODUCTION

In this minor health is conceptualized not only as the absence of disease, but as the result of individual, cultural, social, legal, and environmental influences. The course series provides for focused exploration of social determinants of health with a special emphasis on gender. Learners will be prepared to pursue a variety of careers with a deeper appreciation for the intersection of gender and health.

COURSES

Select four of the following

- ADIV 216 Gender & Diversity in the US
- ISEM 304 Cultures of Health & Illness
- LAW 308 Law, Women and Gender
- HSCI 308 Women's Health
- HSCI 313 Issues in Community Health

LINK TO MINOR FORM:

<http://www.eastfalls.jefferson.edu/successcenter/inc/pdf/advising/DeclaringaMinor.pdf>