Celebrating Our 2022 Graduating Class!

It has been an incredible journey watching our graduates grow over the years into brilliant otolaryngologists. We are thankful for all the time we shared with each of our residents and fellows and we wish them the best as they start the next chapters in their careers. They may not be around in clinic, but they will always and forever be part of the Oto Family!

Kathryn Landers, MD
Outstanding Resident Award

This award goes to the chief resident who most embodied our department's values throughout their residency as voted on by the attending and resident staff.

Kealan Hobelmann, MD
Resident Teaching Award

This award goes to the resident who most exemplifies our commitment to education as embodied in our department's mission statement as voted on by the junior residents.

Adam Luginbuhl, MD
Faculty Teaching Award

This award goes to the faculty member who most exemplifies our commitment to education as embodied in our department's mission statement as voted on by the residents.

Annual Research Symposium Held May 11, 2022

Susan McCammon, MFA, MD, FACS, FAAHPM

The John W. Poynor Professor of Otolaryngology and Director of Head and Neck Surgical Oncology

On Wednesday, May 11, we held our Annual Research Symposium in person for the first time in two years due to the pandemic. We were pleased to have visiting professor and guest moderator, Dr. Susan McCammon from the University of Alabama School of Medicine with us for the day. Dr. McCammon presented Grand Rounds prior to the research symposium on the topic "Getting What You Want and Wanting What you Get: Goal Concordant Decisions in Surgical Care."

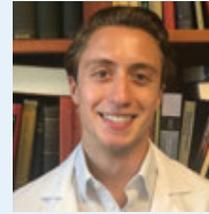

The symposium consisted of many incredible presentations from our clinical fellows, residents and research fellows. A virtual poster session was also held during the symposium. Each year the quality and quantity of research in our department increases. Congratulations to this year's award recipients and thank you to all who made it a successful event!

AWARD RECIPIENTS

Dr. Stephen F. Balshi Prize was awarded to Alexander Duffy, MD (PGY4) for his presentation

"Topical Platelet Rich Plasma as an Emerging Treatment for Olfactory Dysfunction – A Pilot Study."

The award for the best presentation by a Clinical Fellow went to Sean Parsel, DO for his presentation

"Variation in Computed Tomography Opacification in Sinus Disease: A Snapshot in Time."

The award for the best presentation by a 4th Year Resident went to Vanessa Christopher, MD for her presentation "Efficacy of an Articulate Module: Tracheostomy and Laryngectomy Pearls for Health Care Providers."

The Ulrich Rodeck, MD, PhD Award for best presentation by a research fellow went to

Chandala Chitguppi, MD for her presentation entitled "SMARCB1-Deficient and SMARCB1-Retained Sinonasal Undifferentiated Carcinoma (SNUC) Subtypes are Genetically Distinct: A Pilot Study Using RNA Sequencing."

Jefferson Oto in the News

Sixers' 'Miracle'

The Philadelphia Inquirer recently published an article entailing the journey of Sixers Lead Assistant Coach, Dave Joerger, with his head and neck cancer diagnosis and treatment. Thankfully, he was not alone and was treated by our multi-disciplinary team here at Jefferson. Coach Joerger shined a spotlight on David Cognetti, MD, Jennifer Johnson, MD and Voichita Bar-Ad, MD for their extraordinary care and reassurance. Read the full article here: <https://bit.ly/3Rl54y1>

Additionally, the 76ers announced a $75,000 donation to Jefferson Health's Sidney Kimmel Cancer Center to expand Jefferson Health's early-detection, screening and educational programming for underserved communities. The Sixers' gift will cover mobile cancer screenings and smoking cessation programs.

"This gift sends a powerful message to every Philadelphian to never stop fighting, to never give up hope," Dr. David Cognetti said. "We are happy that Coach Joerger has returned to the bench, and we are incredibly grateful to the 76ers for their commitment to our community."

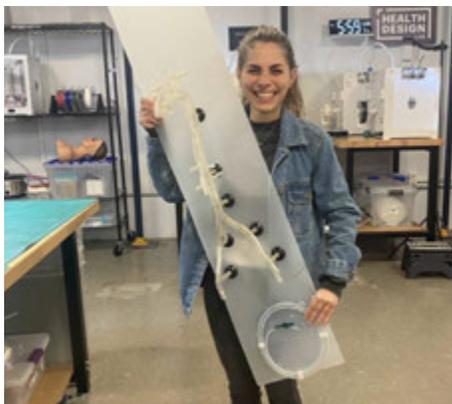

Joseph Curry, MD was recently interviewed by the Health Nexus on the importance of self-examinations for head and neck cancer. This article addresses the rise in HPV-related head and neck cancers and how they present. Read the article here: <https://bit.ly/3yDc7JU>.

David Cognetti, MD was a member of the panel discussion at the 2022 Triological Society Combined Section Meeting which was recently published in ENTtoday. He discussed the prevalence of HPV in oropharyngeal cancer and the treatment options for patients presenting with this disease. Read the article here: <https://bit.ly/3zxM5Ju>

Students Lauren Schlegel, aspiring Otolaryngologist, and Eva Varotsis, the former of which did a clinical rotation in our department, were featured in a Jefferson Nexus article on their research fellowship in Jefferson's Health Design Lab. One of the projects Lauren worked on involved a 3-D cricothyroidotomy training module with Richard A Goldman, MD. Read the full article here: <https://bit.ly/3nVTdss>

Spotlight On Research

Congratulations to Leila Mady, MD, PhD, MPH on the acceptance of her research entitled “The Association of Olfactory Dysfunction and Frailty in Head and Neck Cancer,” being selected for the 2022 Jefferson Emerging Medical Scholars Program Junior Faculty Award.

David Cognetti, MD was co-author on a paper that was recognized by Head and Neck: Journal for the Sciences & Specialties of the Head and Neck for his work, “Salivary Gland Disease in the Era of COVID-19 Pandemic,” being one of the top 10 downloaded papers between 2019 and 2020.

Congratulations to David Rosen, MD, Alexander Duffy, MD (PGY4) and Glenn D’Souza, MD (Research Fellow) for receiving the 2022 Provost Pilot Clinical Research Award. Their project, “Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP) for the treatment of SARS-COV-2 related Olfactory Disturbance – a cross over trial,” will help countless people suffering from COVID-19 related anosmia.

Elizabeth Cottrill, MD shared her expertise with the world in a session called “DTC RAI Endocrine Follow Up Pearls” at the World Congress on Thyroid Cancer 2022 on April 9, 2022.

Joseph Curry, MD served as a moderator on the American Head and Neck Society's Global Webinar entitled "Bridging Continental Divides: Challenges and Opportunities in Head Neck Oncology Practice in Low Resource Settings" on Saturday, April 23. Patrick Jean Gilles, MD and Donald Weed, MD also participated in the panel. Dr. Jean Gilles is the head and neck surgeon in Haiti with whom our department has partnered on surgical mission trips to Haiti over the years. Many of these trips were done in collaboration with a team from the University of Miami, led by Dr. Weed.

Annual Combined Otolaryngology Spring Meeting (COSM)

The Annual Combined Otolaryngology Spring Meeting (COSM) took place between April 27 and May 1 in Dallas, Texas and our department was well represented with multiple oral and poster presentations. The meeting provided both an educational opportunity and a chance to connect with former trainees. Check out the list of presentations from our department members!

AHNS Service Award

Congratulations on the recent reception of a $1,000 Community Service Award from the American Head and Neck Society's Cancer Prevention Service.

This grant proposal, entitled "Screening database integration to leverage and address outstanding screening efficacy questions" was submitted by Zachary Urdang, MD, PhD and developed collaboratively with the entire head and neck division with particular input from Dev Amin, MD (PGY3), Chase Kahn, MD (PGY3), Leila Mady, MD, PhD, MPH, Elizabeth Cottrill, MD and Joseph Curry, MD.

David Cognetti, MD was the invited lecturer for the University of Alabama - Birmingham's 17th Annual Ann B. & Julian Hicks Lectureship in Otolaryngology and Residents' Research Day on May 14, 2022. He presented his topic, "New and Old Treatment Approaches for Oral Cavity Cancer," and served as a panelist judge for the research presentation awards.

David Cognetti, MD gave a presentation at the 60th Annual American Society of Neuroradiology Meeting in New York City on May 17, 2022. His presentation, "Jugular Venous Stenosis: The Role of Styloidectomy," was part of a multidisciplinary panel with interventional neuroradiologists and neurosurgeons.

Congratulations to Sarah Lively, AuD for presenting her research, "CROS or HA? Selecting Contralateral Hearing Device for Unilateral Cochlear Implant Recipients," at the American Cochlear Implant Alliance Conference in Washington DC, May 18-22, 2022. Dr. Lively is pictured with former Jefferson Audiology extern and current Advanced Bionics research audiologist, Christa Nickel, AuD.

Elina Toskala, MD, PhD, MBA was the keynote speaker for Australian Society of Otolaryngology - Head and Neck Surgery Annual meeting in Adelaide on June 11, 2022. Dr. Toskala presented five lectures including four for the main meeting and another for otolaryngology nurses. She also managed to find time to see the local animals, too!

Otolaryngology Events: Looking Back

The Rhinology and Skull base Division held the annual Sinus and Skull Base Dissection Course on May 18, 2022. It was great to see several of our former rhinology fellows including Drs. Tawfiq Khoury (RF'20), Sanjeet Rangarajan (RF'17), Alexander Farag (RF15), and Judd Fastenberg (RF'19). The course was a great educational experience for our residents and fellows in Otolaryngology and Neurosurgery.

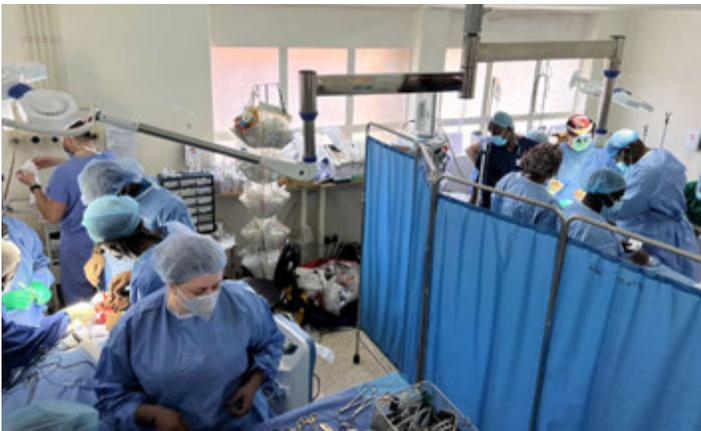

Annual William M. Keane Lecture in Head & Neck Surgery: We were pleased to welcome Francis Civantos, MD, FACS from the University of Miami to present the Annual William M. Keane, MD Lecture in Head and Neck Surgery on Wednesday, June 22, 2022. Dr. Civantos presented his topic, "Historical Perspectives on the Management of the Cervical Lymphatics: Escalation and De-escalation from George Crile to HN006."

Giving Back

In early May 2022, Joseph Curry, MD spent a week at a head and neck surgical camp in Kampala, Uganda. This was a collaborative effort between the Uganda Cancer Institute and University Hospital of Cleveland. The camp was focused on training residents and specialists in various surgical skills for the treatment of head and neck tumors. Special thanks to Chad Zender, MD from the University of Cincinnati for extending the invitation to Dr. Curry to join on this worthwhile mission!
