

TOOLS FOR ACTIVE STUDY

When it comes time to review or work with materials, there are many strategies you can use to test your recall, understanding, and ability to apply information and knowledge. Fill your study toolkit with these practices!

Don't wait until you "feel ready" to self-test! Testing before you feel 100% ready will help you identify what you know versus what you need to work on. Use active study and self-testing to identify your priorities and focus your time.

And remember: always look for ways to challenge yourself early and often!