

Future Health Professionals Program

(Health Science Pipeline Programs)

Are you a high school student interested in the health professions?

The Future Health Professionals Program (FHPP) is a 16-week program that will expose you to a wide range of healthcare careers through:

- Interactive activities and lab-based exercises related to the health professions,
- Engagement with health professions students and faculty members at Jefferson,
- Field trips and tours (i.e., Franklin Institute and the Emergency Department), and
- College and career exploration to prepare you for your future healthcare career!

Who: High School Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors as of September 2018
Where: Thomas Jefferson University - Center City Campus (Philadelphia, PA)

When: Wednesdays from October 2018 - March 2019

Time: 4:00pm - 6:00pm

Application Opens: Tuesday, May 29, 2018

Application Deadline: Monday, September 10, 2018

(Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis.)

To learn more and apply to the Future Health Professionals Program, visit <http://www.jefferson.edu/university/health-science-pipeline/high-school/future-health-professionals.html>